S. S. C. HAS NEW PRESIDENT FOR COMING YEAR

Bro. Peter Succeeds Bro. Macarius
as Head of Local College—Bro.
Peter Excellently Popular and Successful Executive—Bro.
Macarius Beloved.

When it was announced Saturday afternoon, after the recent retreat of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, at St. Stanislaus College, that Brother Peter had been chosen as the executive head of the popular house of learning, a perfect wave of joy swept through Bay St. Louis, the news went by word of mouth from one to the other till before twenty-four hours had elapsed everybody from Cedar Point to Waveland knew the glad tidings. Friends broadcaster the news to New Orleans, and congratulations poured in from the "Old Boys" as well as many students who are away on vacation, expressing their pleasure at the selection of one so well beloved.

One knowing Bro. Peter will not marvel at the universal satisfaction of his election, for it can safely be said that in the whole history of the old college never was there a more popular man than the students and the citizens of Bay St. Louis generally, regardless of religious affiliations.

It is principally through the painstaking efforts of Bro. Peter, as athletic director, in conjunction with Coach Foster Cummings, that St. Stanislaus College has earned an enviable record in athletics among the colleges of the South. It was through their work on the campus that the team of Rock-a-Chaws, playing in Chicago, were unanimously selected as the BEST SPORTSMEN at the National Tournament.

The career of Bro. Peter's popularity lies in the fact that he is at once both a remarkably learned and convincing conversationalist and a first class mixer. He is loved by the students of the college because he convinces them that he is their friend and playmate as well as their teacher and guardian.

Brother Peter has been a Brother of the Society of the Sacred Heart for twenty years. He first came to Bay St. Louis in 1906 as a teacher, after remaining here a year he was sent to Waveland, where he stayed until 1918; returning to the Bay, he became vice president under Bro. Lambert in 1924, succeeding Brother Martinian.

In 1925 Bro. Peter was a delegate at the meeting of the General Chapter of the order in Spain, from where he journeyed to Belgium, where he remained for a period of six months, making what is known as the Grand Novitiate, where his studies took on the very highest order of intensiveness. Upon his return to Stanislaus he was elected by the writer about his work over the pond. In reply he said: "I have been studying 'Biology.' I thought I knew boys before, but now, after these months, I realize that I did not know them, as well as I should; yes, I've learned a lot about them that I'm glad of." The psychology of youth was what he referred to.

In education, Bro. Peter is the possessor of the coveted degrees and is fluent in French, Spanish and Latin. He will not relinquish the post of athletic director, as that is his cherished hobby, and there's none more fitted for it.

BROTHER MACARIUS.

After two years of the presidency of Stanislaus, wherein he has made many friends and endeared himself to the townspeople, Bro. Macarius has been transferred to Natchez to act as a superior of the institution located in that city, at which post he has already served a term.

NAMED THE ROCK-A-CHAWS.

It was Bro. Macarius who christened the S. S. C. team "Rock-a-Chaws," and the name has stuck to them ever since. A team that is reckoned by many of the best teams in all round sports throughout the Southland as one to be feared on the gridiron, diamond and court. Bro. Macarius got the name from the pesky, thorny grass spurs that are peculiar to this locality, representing, in his mind, the stickiness of the fighting players of the College.

Bro. Macarius has been in the Brotherhood of the Sacred Heart since 1885. He was a teacher at St. Stanislaus from 1886 to 1903, going from here to Baton Rouge, La., as superior. From Louisiana's capital he went to Metuchen, N. J., where he remained for three years as a training master to young brothers returning South he was made superior at Donalsonville, Ga., where he spent several years. After a stay at Vicksburg, Mo., Macarius came to Bay St. Louis in 1906.

Brother Macarius is a very learned and able man, one whose executive ability is far above the ordinary and whose friendship is a start to the students. He will remain in Natchez, Miss., until 1927, and will then return to the Bay to act as superior of all the institutions.

CAPT. C. B. FISHER TO BUILD BRIDGE FOR CONTRACTOR

Well Known Bay St. Louis Citizen
Assumes Work of Contractor J.
B. Smith, III at His Home in New Orleans, for Building
Bay St. Louis Bridge.

Owing to the serious and continued illness of J. B. Smith, contractor for the building of the Bay St. Louis bridge, the services of Capt. C. B. Fisher, resident of Bay St. Louis, have been officially retained for the building of the bridge across the massive and beautiful body of water in front of our city.

Capt. Fisher, accompanied by his Attorney R. L. Genin, who is also attorney for the contractor, spent Thursday in New Orleans, where all necessary arrangements and detail work was attended to, and since Contractor Smith is incapacitated by serious illness and unable to leave his bed, Captain Fisher will proceed to go ahead and build the bridge for the original contractor.

While the illness of Mr. Smith is deeply regretted, it is good news to learn that the big task has fallen into such capable hands as that of C. B. Fisher, with executive ability and knowledge of knowing how to do things well and quickly. Capt. Fisher will leave Monday morning by auto for various points through Louisiana in the interest of the building of the bridge and in the meantime every effort possible will be going on at home with Supt. Magoon to facilitate matters.

In conversation with The Echo, Capt. Fisher said it was his aim to give all home labor of the two counties every opportunity to work on the bridge. He says there is plenty of work to be done well and quickly, therefore there will be plenty of employment to go around.

It is noted the preliminary work begun recently on the bridge, halted about a week or ten days ago and all work practically brought to a standstill. Contractor Smith could find no one to carry on the work in his place and as it should be, until the happy thought struck him while on his back in bed, that his warm personal friend, Capt. C. B. Fisher, would be the man to take over the job. On behalf of the friendship existing between the two men and for the "good of Bay St. Louis," as the Captain says, he readily accepted and from now on he will exert every endeavor for an early consummation of Bay St. Louis' most cherished and looked for public improvement.

A PSALM OF THE PERFECT DAY.

The sun is just rising on a new, unclouded day. Grant me whatsoever will not make others poor, because of my possessions, but which gather value as they pass through me.

A few sincere friends, who understand me, yet remain true to me. A work to do which has real value, without which the world would feel poorer!

A sight of the hills eternal; the un-resting sea; and something beautiful which the hand of man has made!

A mind unafraid to travel, even though the trail be untraced! An understanding heart whose wisdom is tempered with mercy!

A sense of humor, the power to laugh, the grace to weep, and a little leisure with nothing to do!

A few moments of quiet—the sense of the presence of God!

And the patience to wait for the coming of these things, that the sunset shall not be darkened with the clouds of my haste.—W. W. Argow, in The Master Mason.

4-H. CLUB TO HAVE PICNIC.

A picnic and celebration is planned by the 4-H. Club of Hancock county, at Waveland on September 9th, to be given under the auspices of the Home Demonstration department, of the county, in charge of Miss O'Don. It will be really well worth while, for, in addition to its recreational aspects, there will be an important phase, that of educational as well. No rally or assembly is complete without speakers and lecturers. This is already provided for. Among the speakers to be present are Dr. Ramsey, of Ellisville, School for Feeble Minded; Senator Carl Marshall, Dr. O. M. Shipp, T. Ed. Keller and last but by no means least, Governor Theodore G. Billo, candidate for re-election.

The picnic is generally anticipated from every quarter in the county, and the gathering, it is stated, will be unusually large.

Places Brother Peter will be Brother Edmunds, who is at present in Europe, where he has been about six months. He has been at St. Stanislaus for eight years and is a favorite with everyone. He will well fill the position of first assistant to Brother Peter. Several other changes in the faculty for the next year have been announced.

Brother Macarius is a very learned and able man, one whose executive ability is far above the ordinary and whose friendship is a start to the students. He will remain in Natchez, Miss., until 1927, and will then return to the Bay to act as superior of all the institutions.

LOCAL FIRE CO. ENJOY SUPPER THURSDAY NIGHT

Members and Other Citizens Guests of Hancock County Insurance
Agency of Bay St. Louis—Get Together Banquet Proves
Most Delightful.

There was quite a spread served at the K. C. Hall Thursday night to members of the local fire company and a number of other citizens came to the fire ladders by the plimentary to the fire ladders by the Hancock County Insurance Agency, of Bay St. Louis, of which A. A. Scallan and S. L. Engman are the executives.

In addition to the purpose of holding a get-together meeting, it was planned to discuss the advisability of the early building of a new fireman's hall or engine house and to equip the city with such fire-fighting paraphernalia as would mean further protection and possibly the lowering of insurance rates.

Speakers for the insurance agency said they were as much in favor of a low rate of insurance as anyone else. A lower rate meant less hardship on the people to pay and in the last analysis meant more insurance, and more insurance meant not only more business but more protection. The latter was the main idea.

R. L. Genin was master of ceremonies for the evening. As toastmaster he injected into the feast much wit and needless to say the pleasant and general repartee was enjoyed by one and all. Mr. Genin is a good speaker, thoughts and language flow quickly, and he is ever ready.

H. F. Mattox was the first speaker of the evening, his subject "Power and Errors of the Press," and it appeared means anything he distinguished himself in a happy and most creditable manner.

Then followed the other professional speakers, Messrs. E. J. Gex, Jos. O. Mauffray, Mayor G. Y. Blaise, Alderman Traube, Marti, Gillum and Carver, Judge W. H. Starr, Banker Leo W. Seal, Ed. Keller, county superintendent of education, Claud Montague, Temple, John Reuther, Arthur A. Scallan, E. J. Giering, Frank Quintini and Ernest W. Drackett.

As a result of this meeting it is hoped early relief will be forthcoming, that is a lower rate of insurance, that we may soon be able to acquire such equipment and building required to put Bay St. Louis in Class A-1 if possible.

Ernest W. Drackett is president of the Bay St. Louis Fire Company and is using every endeavor, with other officers and members to affect everything possible for the good of the cause.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mrs. Jos. J. Ritzky was hostess last week to the Tuesday afternoon bridge club, at "Mistletoe," the family summer home on the Waveland beach front, entertained charmingly and with a marked degree of success.

Mrs. R. H. Prados, charming young matron, entertained delightfully at bridge in weekly club formation a number of friends.

Mrs. H. B. Weston, of Logtown, entertained at the Little Tea Room, in Nicholson Avenue, this city, with much charm Tuesday afternoon, in compliment to her house guests, Mrs. M. Briggs, her mother, and Mrs. Robert Briggs, sister-in-law, both of Texas, who are visiting for the balance of the summer. The bridge party was unusually effective and a source of thorough pleasure throughout the evening. The hostess had as her guests Mrs. A. P. Fournier, Mrs. Valentine Dell, Mrs. Wm. J. Winfield, Partridge, Mrs. Donald Marshall, Mrs. J. H. Bouslog, Mrs. R. de Montluzin, Mrs. J. J. Evans, Mrs. Harrington, of New Orleans, Mrs. E. W. Drackett, Mrs. George L. Gex, Mrs. E. J. Lacoste, Mrs. Owen Crawford, Mrs. Kenneth Pepperdine, Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau, Mrs. John Weston, Mrs. David Weston, Mrs. E. Lacoste and the honorees, Mrs. M. Briggs and Mrs. R. Briggs.

The prizes were unusually handsome, trophies well worth striving for and were won in order named by Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. Moreau and Mrs. Marshall.

Mrs. R. de Montluzin was hostess yesterday afternoon to the Summer Bridge Club, whose series of afternoon parties seemingly prove successively most delightful. A number of guests in addition to the club members, were present.

Invitations have been issued for a "treasure hunt" next Tuesday evening in compliment to Miss Elizabeth Reed, of Waveland, Miss. who is the house guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Rea, in Washington street and who will leave shortly after spending a most delightful visit to the Coast.

TO MEET AT HOME OF MRS. BOURGEOIS.

The Women's Missionary Society of Hancock County will meet on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. A. Scallan, in Bay St. Louis, for the purpose of discussing the proposed new church building and the financial situation of the society.

LOCATION WITHOUT PARALLEL.

Heads of Coast Cities Unanimous in Exhortation Bay St. Louis Has Advantage of Location—Nearer to Big City One of Biggest Assets.

Everyone of the speakers in Bay St. Louis last Monday night, who had come over from a number of the coastal cities to speak along informative lines in the interest of a public improvement issue then in discussion, and which since carried, were unanimous in the expression that Bay St. Louis' location on the extreme west end of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and its beautiful and practically landlocked harbor, with close proximity to the largest city South, were elements that gave this city an advantage by far superior to all other places.

Without disparaging their own respective cities and for proper recognition, they expressed themselves unhesitatingly as being in the best; its advantages were preponderantly in our favor; everything to be desired under this category were our own, inapproachable and not to be overshadowed without a doubt.

This is unquestionably without a doubt. Bay St. Louis and Waveland hold an enviable position, first, by their location, and secondly, by their closeness to a city teeming with progress and enterprise and a population well over a half million people. As a "feeder" to this great fact is an uncontested reality.

In last week's issue of this paper, a member of our staff, "Relecas," called attention to the fact there were frequent delinquencies, from time to time, where Bay St. Louis failed to come in for proper recognition, and made specific mention of the subdivisions and master developments facing Bay St. Louis or located near the waters of the bay, omitted Bay St. Louis in stating their location. He said there was marked predilection to obscure Bay St. Louis in the usage of other localities.

We wish to oppose this in each and every instance. Not that the Gulf Coast as a whole is not united in purpose and aim, to develop and grow; to ameliorate the condition of our people and particular location, but because the fact we are entitled to such credit and must have it. It is the aim of The Sea Coast Echo and surely that of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and other organizations and every man and woman to see that we get this recognition. To make a correction, we are glad to get it, and at all times and in every instance to insist that we do get it. It is well a case of tender unto Caesar.

COAST PROSPERITY IS NOW ASSURED.

Gathering of Representative Citizens Discuss Huge Projects Launched During the Past Year.

Walter Reid, in Coast Beacon.

At a gathering of representative Coast citizens held recently at Gulfport, Messrs. R. L. Simpson, A. L. Jague, Louis Braun, T. E. Harris, S. L. McGlathery and others in a brief but most interesting and enlightening session, enumerating the outstanding developments during that period. Mention was made of the Edgewater Hotel, the Illinois Central, the seaway, Pine Hills, Gulf Hills, the Miramar sub-division, Edgewater Park, Broadmore, Hotel Minkler, the Beverly Bridge, the Gulf Coast, the work of the Chambers of Commerce at Biloxi and Gulfport, the new drainage district, the 40 miles of new road, the hundreds of new homes and dozens of important projects not enumerated in the foregoing, all developed within one year.

One speaker called attention to the fact that all these projects are being successfully promoted and are backed by big men determined to develop the Coast. In this connection Tom Harris stated that the Illinois Central Railroad has spent $1,800,000 in improving the Gulf Coast tracks. Mention was made of the vast financial resources of the syndicates headed by Branigan Brothers, Herbert Shimp, and other Chicagoans operating on the Coast, and also of the New Orleans interests behind the Pine Hills development.

Another speaker called attention to the fact that Coast investors are in every case making good on their investments. He stated that all paper is being covered when due at the banks, and three prominent bankers present corroborated this statement. All agreed that the development of the Coast during the past twelve months has been unprecedented in the United States and that present conditions are absolutely sound and stable.

OFF TO MONTEAGLE, TENN.

Mrs. R. B. Perkins and Misses Hermonie, Gertrude and Ruth Perkins, left during the week for Montevallo, Tenn., where they will spend the remainder of the summer, while Mrs. Perkins, with Miss Dorothy Weston and a party of Newcomb College students and chaperones, are traveling Europe. ### FALL FLOWER SHOW BAY ST. LOUIS FOR GULF COAST

Big Show For City Middle of November—Every Place Along Coast Eligible to Show and Compete for Prizes.

While other places over the local country are having chrysanthemum and other flower shows—every fall, Bay St. Louis and the balance of the Gulf Coast grow the biggest and prettiest chrysanthemums, yet this city has never had a show of its own, and announcement is now given out officially through the columns of The Sea Coast Echo that on November 15th a flower show is to be held in Bay St. Louis.

While the flower show will feature the chrysanthemums and ferns of every description will also compete, under respective classification. It is planned to hold the show outdoors, weather permitting, at the Hotel Weston, with extra illumination for the occasion, although this plan is susceptible to change.

Announcing this show so far ahead will give every lover and grower of plants and flowers indicated above time to compete. Cultivation of chrysanthemums, especially from now on, will give immediate response. The show will be under the auspices of Hancock county demonstration department, and is to encourage the culture of more and better flowers. This is the land of flowers. A little incentive means more and better cultivation.

FROM THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

(By the Secretary.)

On August 10th, when the people of Hancock county were called on to go to the polls and cast their ballot for or against the seaway bond issue, their response was a monument to the present-day progress. Out of a total of twelve hundred and ninety-three votes cast, eleven hundred were heartily in favor of it, while one hundred and ninety-three were heartily against it. Today Bay St. Louis and Waveland stand on the threshold of a new era and looking deep into the future they are preparing for whatever it may have to offer. Their close proximity to New Orleans, a bridge spanning the Bay of St. Louis and connecting the million tons of the Gulf Coast with the million tons of the Mississippi River, and a dollar seaway and drive to be built around their shore line, and a united people who believe in co-operation and progress. With these distinct advantages Bay St. Louis and Waveland bid fair to make their place in the Gulf Coast cities who have a larger population. "A Town Today, a City Tomorrow."

PERKINS PLANS TO BE BUSY.

R. Terrell Perkins, local realtor, with sumptuous office in The Echo building is very busy with quite a number of prospective sales on the table, of which one or two are particularly big and it is evident will go through.

Yesterday Perkins was instrumental in selling the lot in St. Charles street, recently acquired from John Minder, near the Beach Front, upon which Carroll had already built a foundation for a modern building. J. Staehle, of New Orleans, was the purchaser, and the consideration $7,000.

Mr. Perkins is intensely interested in the auto move originating at Baton Rouge, La., from that place to the Mississippi Gulf Coast, with the first initial trip of the new route or trail will be made shortly, undertaken by a caravan of twelve cars, carrying distinguished citizens from the Pelican State. It is planned to meet the new trail citizens with a formal reception, most especially since the trip to the Coast will end at Bay St. Louis. The Chamber of Commerce and others will no doubt co-operate in the movement to well receive the visitors.

CHURCH FAIR TONIGHT.

In addition to the Charleston contest, there will be many new features at the Church Fair to be given this Saturday evening and tomorrow evening on the lawn of St. Stanislaus College, benefit debt fund Church Our Lady of the Gulf. This evening there will also be a treasure hunt for children, and tomorrow night one for adults. There are many committees and it is interesting to note all functioning actively, thus assuring the success of the Fair. The grounds have been beautifully decorated, all electric wiring and illumination by the Sun-Soft Electric Company, located on the beach front. The "live wire" Archie Strouss is the "live wire" Archie always answers "present" to the roll call.

GOLF COURSE AND COUNTRY CLUB FOR BAY ST. LOUIS

Meeting Last Night at Hotel Weston Brought Golf and Country Club Project for Bay St. Louis and Waveland to Decision.

For quite a while residents of Bay St. Louis and other parts of the county have been endeavoring to build a golf course for this city and vicinity as well. Last year approximately one hundred acres were purchased for the purpose at the intersection of Nicholson Avenue and the Old Spanish Trail, but, since we are told big movements move slowly, the matter did not speed as those interested wished.

Organization moved forward, officers elected, land purchased and every element for a successful golf club accomplished. It was found, however, that someone had to do the work, professional services were necessary and he was here for the means was not an amateur. Local men who knew were too busy.

E. Willis, who recently organized and who put into actual going the Back Bay Country Club, addressed the meeting by inviting a last night. Having been familiar with the situation and had tentatively planned. He expressed himself most optimistic for the success of the undertaking. He said it had been done at Biloxi and elsewhere and could be done here, especially since there was no golf course here or nearby.

Mr. Willis proposed an 18-hole golf course, a country club house, with dining pavilion, kitchen and dining room for parties and for general use for members, and to make the place one of the most attractive resorts on the Coast. The kind Bay St. Louis and Waveland had so long felt the need of. The subscription list for the stock is now open, and Mr. Willis will call on a list of people previously prepared.

While the Country Club membership will be restricted, yet it is planned to popularize the club by the number of unusual and delightful attractions to be had at all times, and will prove another asset to the fast-growing Mississippi Gulf Coast.

BIG PLUMBING CONTRACT GOES TO LOCAL MERCHANT.

Alonso B. Hayden Awarded $4,625 Job on Lyman Consolidated School.

Pass Christian Beacon.

Alonso B. Hayden, Inc., prominent local merchant, was awarded the plumbing and heating contract for the Lyman Consolidated School, at Lyman, Miss., this week. The amount of the contract is $4,625.00, and the contract went to Mr. Hayden after he had successfully outbid three competitors.

The Lyman School will be a one-story brick building, the general contractor being the Stewart Lumber Company. The work of construction will be started immediately, as the building is scheduled to be completed by January 1. Mr. Hayden was also the successful bidder on the waterworks project at Long Beach, which is now completed.

The award of the contract to Mr. Hayden is looked upon in local circles as another indication of the enterprising spirit of Pass Christian businessmen, and while he has already several noteworthy accomplishments to his credit, the present project will further advertise the fact that the business life of the city is rapidly developing along real progressive lines.

VANISHING TIMBER.

Figures compiled by Chief Forester Greaves, of the Forest Service, show that in 1923, when lumber production reached its highest point since the depression following the World War, 26 States produced less lumber than they consumed. Prominent among these are the popular States in the northern and western sections of the country, where more than thirty million acres, once heavily timbered, now contribute but little to the nation's lumber cut.

It is further pointed out that California, one of the States still possessing large virgin forests, consumed in 1923 more than twice as much lumber as that State produced. Expressed in figures, California imported nearly three billion feet to meet its needs in 1923, the last year for which lumber distribution figures are available.

Other States which imported more than one and two billion feet are New York, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania, all of which except Illinois were once leading States in lumber production.

"The drain upon the nation's timber supply is a predominant domestic issue," said Mr. Greaves, "and the American people must regard it as such until the rate of timber growth catches up with the rate of consumption. This drain is now believed to be four times the regrowth. As a result, the nation's timber supply is being depleted and must be replenished by the country's virgin timber should not result in increasing the present vast acreage of idle forest land."—Mississippi Sun.

WAVELAND SEAWALL BOND ISSUE IS ASSURED SUCCESS

Tuesday's Special Election for $1,250,000.00 for Seawall and Road Protection Carries Almost Unanimously—Improvement Matter of Time.

Early results received Tuesday evening, shortly after 6 o'clock, when all voting precincts closed over Hancock county, gave assurance the bond issue for $1,250,000.00 for seawall and road protection had carried. Bay St. Louis vote was a heavy swing for the good. Later reports from the precincts over the county, including Waveland with a solid vote, gave every assurance the issue at stake had carried, and that in due time Bay St. Louis' seawall will be properly repaired and that proposed for Waveland built.

BAY ST. LOUIS AND THE GULF COAST

A writer in the Chicago Graphic, an illustrated weekly of unusual attractiveness, some years ago, writing special articles, said Bay St. Louis was "a vision of loveliness." That was very pretty and a deserved compliment to the City by the Sea, facing the Gulf of Mexico, and where nature smiles the year 'round. But that did not go far enough. It was a pretty expression, poetical, etc., but after that meant nothing.

Bay St. Louis is still a vision of loveliness and always will be. Its extreme location, with its limits fringing the water of the Gulf of Mexico, its giant oaks and sweet scented magnolia trees, perpetual in their verdure and balmy pines, it's a living picture of health-giving and one can never forget it in lasting admiration.

An unusual and singular intrigue of nature is found especially in Bay St. Louis and the balance of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. In the rear are the pines, illimitable in number, and to the front are sea breezes and gulf air that for health is a remarkable combination. Here is a tonic that defies the world. Thousands of people who have visited this section will read this statement. They are challenged to come and see for themselves. Stay long enough, and jaded spirits, the victim of "nerves," will disappear and roses that are only found on healthy cheeks will return. No cunning apothecary of centuries, either in fact or fiction could conjure a more potent concoction.

The beauty of Bay St. Louis, and its sister city of Waveland has never been disputed. Nor has any other feature that might figure in this article. But a "Vision of Loveliness" tells a pretty tale, but aside from this nothing else. Hence the reference of the balmy fragrance of the pine mingling at shore edges with zephyrs from the gulf, salt-laden and carrying with each gentle whiff the tang of the sea. Who would not wish to live here!

Bay St. Louis was the fishing village of yesterday. It was then in all the glory of its primeval beauty. Few knew of it, few enjoyed it. The Indian was here in his tribal freedom, later generations were the Choctaw; then followed the Chickasaw, then the inhabitants of the fishing village, poets have conspired to dwell upon in picturesque tenor; then Bay St. Louis, the incorporated city, the "City-by-the-Sea," and then another dreamlike cycle, since we live and travel in cycles, and today—Bay St. Louis the modern paradise, the city of One Thousand and One Charms, the incomparable; still alluring but modern and a place not only one loves to think of but where one longs to live.

Although teeming with improvements and more programmed for the immediate future, with the gigantic public bridge in actual construction, Bay St. Louis is all the more attractive for these reasons. It is a city of homes, an educational center, health resort, summer and winter resort, paved streets in the city and charming roads that wind their way through many miles in the interior; its drinking water has been endorsed by the State Laboratory of Chemistry and health-giving and rich in medicinal virtue, without taste, which is so often found in mineral waters elsewhere. In fact, water furnished by the city is of pure artesian source and is unsurpassed as a table water. One could live in Bay St. Louis if for no other reason or attraction. Its water is as pure and healthful as possible. Owned by the city, the rate to subscribers is nominal. Artificial pressure makes it a constant safeguard against fire.

As to the railroad facilities Bay St. Louis has to offer, no trunk line can equal. There are through and local trains, a total of 24 per day. The major number of these connect with all points North and East. Only slightly over an hour's run to New Orleans, the metropolis of the South, is an attraction and advantage not to be overlooked. Then there is bathing, water brought in by the seafarer every twenty-four hours affords regular sea bathing. Bathing in the gulf waters begins early in the spring and continues late in the fall.

In season, the sportsman has ample to interest him. Fishing in fresh and salty waters, where they catch the big ones. Hunting is always interesting. Then boating. Then motoring, this has been called "his paradise." For long trips the Spanish Trail, passing through the city of Bay St. Louis, will lead on the way to California on one side and Florida on the other.

Bay St. Louis is not only on the U. S. N. line, but near the T. C. R. R. at Gulfport, only a short ride and with proper connection, where the trip from Chicago is covered in 21 hours. At your desk in Chicago to-day and play golf on the Mississippi Gulf Coast tomorrow afternoon! A business man from Chicago might have his family here for the winter and commute to and fro weekly, if needs be.

They are inseparable. Let's get acquainted. The thousands in other places who might read these lines must become acquainted with this section. They will be welcomed and the proper persons and organizations will serve willingly.

And in closing this article, last, but by no means least, we must refer to the churches. Bay St. Louis, too, has been the city of churches. Nearly every denomination is represented here. Lodges and other fraternal organizations flourish here. There are several social and civic organizations. The spirit of fellowship in Bay St. Louis is good. It is best by test. Won't you come and make the test?

AN OUTSIDER'S VIEW

Commenting on the success of the Waveland seawall election held Tuesday, the New Orleans Times-Picayune says "the people of Hancock county are to be congratulated on the election outcome, and upon its noteworthy demonstration of their progressive spirit." The T. P. editorially says, issue of Thursday:

"Hancock county voters, in the special election last Tuesday, carried the seawall bond issue project by a majority that was surprising as well as gratifying. At three of the polling places not a single vote was cast against the project; in several others the favoring majorities ranged as high as fifteen to one; the county-wide majority will approximate seven or eight to one, according to yesterday's reports. And some of the largest votes for the bonds were polled by communities in the interior which have not the direct interest in seawall defenses possessed by their neighbors along the water front. Evidently the inland voters realize that the protection of their shore line will promote the general county welfare by encouraging development and increasing and stabilizing values."

SHOW SPLENDID SPIRIT

The Gulfport Herald is quite complimentary in its write-up of the successful seawall bond election held in Hancock county this week, commenting on what it pleases to call our "Splendid Spirit." The Herald says:

"The people of Hancock county have shown a splendid spirit of co-operation throughout the seawall campaign. The Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of its secretary, S. F. Gentry, has led the campaign, backed by every business man of the city and surrounding country. Mass meetings were held in every doubtful section in the county and the whole problem explained so that lack of knowledge of the issue would not defeat the election. The hope of the various civic clubs of the Bay was to see the issue go over through the county without the loss of a single precinct. 'The thinking men of the Bay, the business men, the developers, are all united in believing that the vote of Hancock county yesterday marks the biggest individual accomplishment of the county in its history and see in the building of the seawall along the Bay and Gulf front an evidence of the future success of the county.'"

It was a friendly and constructive spirit manifested by the different heads of cities over in Harrison county and the head of the Board of Supervisors of that county, to assemble in Bay St. Louis on the eve of the seawall bond election, to tell the story of seawall building and bond issue success from first hands. There was no intention to dictate or interfere in our own affairs, but simply a manifestation of that neighborly spirit and evidence of co-ordination which is so marked along the Gulf Coast and makes for this Coast much of its success and present prosperity, whereas, formerly, similar disposition was lacking. The get-together and pull-together spirit is all-powerful and mighty in civic and progressive endeavor.

TEACHING BY PICTURES

This is an age of pictures. In books, newspapers, magazines and on the screen of the world's panorama is presented to us through the medium of pictures. But the use of pictures as an educational aid is yet in its infancy.

Much experimenting has already been done with a view to the employment of moving pictures in the schools and considerable progress has been made in their actual introduction into the school room. Now comes the Eastman Kodak Company with the announcement of an ambitious program for the extension of visual education, which promises great things.

A large series of educational films are to be developed for use in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades of grammar schools and in junior high schools. These are to be made in co-operation with the National Educational Association and the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, of which Will H. Hays, former postmaster general, is the president. School authorities of ten large cities, including New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, will assist in planning the series.

Coming at a time when curriculum problems are seriously engaging the attention of educators, this plan to produce moving pictures into the classroom is an innovative and progressive step. It is a step toward the modernization of the school and a step toward the betterment of the child.

The subject has been treated exhaustively in these columns from time to time the past several weeks to such an extent that almost anything that might be said at this time would be mere repetition. And now that the die has been cast, Bay St. Louis and Waveland are to receive their seawall betterments, and paid for by the most equitable tax of all—a few cents on every gallon of gasoline sold—we might pause for a while in satisfaction and await the building of roads and protection along this coastal front forming so integral a part of the entire county's success.

Waveland has awaited patiently. Ever since 1915 relief was promised by the county; the Board of Supervisors said let us build our bridge over Bay St. Louis first, then the Waveland seawall protection project. And how well that promise has been kept, after emerging from a lot of legal technicalities and legislative remedies and expedients. The faith has been kept by those in authority.

Well is there room for congratulations. To the Board of Supervisors, Senator Carl Marshall, Representative Robt. L. Gen'n, who shaped and fostered the bills through the Legislature, making possible such improvement and its easy method of payment, and to others who later joined in urging the movement until its final success last Tuesday. County Attorney E. J. Gex was one of the most ardent workers, lending his voice and talent, with others, on the stump on any and all occasions upon which he was called to serve. W. J. Gex was another potent power.

The ladies, too, worked assiduously throughout the hottest part of the fray, so many, that to name one or more would mean quite a list. No one is seeking praise no one wishes bouquets; the satisfaction of their work having been accomplished is sufficient glory for these splendid civic workers, ever found in the front ranks of every movement calculated for the public good.

A SENSIBLE COURT

In contrast with the tendency of many courts to thwart justice through setting aside convictions of criminals on trivial technical grounds, a decision of the Alabama Court of Appeals is worthy of commendatory notice.

The case of a defendant convicted of second degree murder was appealed on the ground that one of the jurors named J. Arnold Hale had answered to the name of A. Arnold Hale on the venire. As a matter of fact, the juror in question was commonly known simply as Arnold Hale and there was no other person of that name in the county in which the case was tried. In affirming the sentence of the trial court, the Court of Appeals said:

"Highly technical and capricious criticisms of the rulings of trial courts will not cause this court to reverse causes and grant new trials in criminal cases, where it does not appear that some substantial right of the defendant has been taken away from him."

Reversal of convictions on account of insignificant clerical errors and similar absurd technicalities have done much to weaken public respect for many appellate courts. As a distinguished jurist recently said:

"If some five hundred appellate judges in the various States would agree to put an end to technicality reversals, and would restore consideration of the subject of justice, the whole machinery of the criminal law would take on a new life."

ABOUT WOMEN

Miss McGrath, an Irish girl, said to be one of the heaviest women in the world, will appear in American film comedies.

The membership of the National Association of Bank Women includes six bank presidents, two vice presidents, two directors, five cashiers and fifteen assistant cashiers.

Mrs. Rose McCall, of Providence, R. I., Miss Marion Smith, of Wisconsin, Me., and Miss Maude Fisher, of New York, are members of the MacMillan expedition to Greenland.

Miss Bertha B. Macfarlane, president of the Louisiana Association of Life Underwriters, is the first woman to be elected to such an office in any State.

Miss Bessie Crockett, of Little Rock, is now the possessor of the famous hunting rifle once used by her great-grandfather, Davy Crockett, hero of the Alamo.

Mrs. Laura Gardin Fraser, noted New York authoress, is the first woman to be awarded the Saltus medal of the American Numismatic Society.

Miss William Lamborn is head of the women's department of the National Association of Manufacturers.

NEW FORD AIRPLANES

On the occasion of a recent visit to President Coolidge's summer camp, Edsel Ford discussed airplanes. In an interview given later, Mr. Ford elaborated upon his company's newest model, soon to be placed on the market.

It is to be a monoplane, with a wing spread of 58 feet, propelled by three Wright Whirlwind 200 horsepower, air cooled, 9-cylinder motors. The three-motor plane affords great power in getting off the ground, also provides the maximum factor of safety. Should one motor become disabled in flight, the other two would be able to complete the journey; while even in the improbable event that two should fail, the remaining motor would enable the airplane to choose a landing place within a radius of ten miles from an altitude of one thousand feet, with a proportionately wider radius from a greater height.

The first 100 planes of this type will cost about $37,000 each, and Mr. Ford believes that there will be a waiting market for these first 100 planes. He believes that mass production will follow in due time at a lower cost.

Ford's aerial freight lines now run from Detroit to Chicago and Cleveland, and will shortly be extended. In a little more than a year 295,000 miles were covered in 3,354 hours, with a total of 1,644,000 pounds of freight carried. "We hope to encourage others to go into the air transport business," said Mr. Ford, "by showing them that it can be done, and by providing safe and sound ships at the lowest possible cost."

Probably no greater impetus could have been given to commercial aviation than the decision of the Ford interests to go into the manufacture and operation of airplanes on a large scale. Aside from the commercial aspect of the enterprise, it will afford an invaluable means of national defense, should the need for it unhappily arise.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD SUPERVISORS IN HANCOCK COUNTY

Official Proceedings of Board of Supervisors—Formal Orders and General Matters of News and Direct Interest Transacted.

Wednesday morning, Aug. 4, 1926, Board met pursuant to adjournment, present as follows: The county owns part of lot 402 of the Third Ward, of the City of St. Louis, as per the Drake map of said City, filed in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Hancock County, on May 1st, 1923, lying west of the Old Spanish Trail, being a small lot of practically no value, and being of no value to the county.

Whereas Albert Jones has offered the county the sum of $200 for said lot, which in the opinion of the Board is a good price for same, he is therefore ordered that S. Weston, Tax Collector, be and is ordered and directed to execute a deed to the said part of lot 402 of the Third Ward of the City of St. Louis, lying west of the Old Spanish Trail, as per the Drake map of said City, filed in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Hancock County, on May 1st, 1923, as the act and deed of the County upon the said Albert Jones paying over to the county the sum and amount of $200.00 cash.

It is ordered by the Board that the following amounts be allowed Tax Collector for disbursements of said disbursements for the year 1925:

State	$23.32

FOLLOWS EMANCIPATOR

Milton R. Moskow, twelve-year-old San Francisco schoolboy who since the age of five has patterned his life after that of Abraham Lincoln, aspires to occupy the White House some day as his hero did. He has been nominated as a candidate for the American Youth Award established by the directors of the Sequel-Centennial International Exposition, held in Philadelphia from June 1 to December 1 in celebration of 150 years of American Independence. Under the plan of the American Youth Award and the American Teacher Award, each state will select a boy and a girl and a woman teacher who best represent American ideals, and they will be given trips to Philadelphia and to Washington, where they will receive medals from President Coolidge.

CONTEST LACKS MAJOR ISSUES.

Mississippi's Democratic nominees for Congress to be selected largely on individual popularity.

Jackson, Miss., August 10.—Interest in the State-wide Democratic primary of August 17 increased today as candidates with formidable opposition undertook more intensive campaigning in order to reach a majority of the voters during the eight days of the election. The contest is being held in the absence of a party platform, and the deciding factor in most of the races since major issues have, as a rule, been lacking.

Party standard bearers will be chosen for four seats in the National House of Representatives. Aspirants to State judicial and municipal offices will also figure in the primary. Nomination is equivalent to election.

Spice was injected into the contest by a campaign in the eighth congressional district when "the negro" question became an issue between the two candidates, J. W. Collier, incumbent, and Francis Harmon, former special assistant attorney general of Mississippi. Representative Collier's supporters have charged that Mr. Harmon committed before a legislative committee several months ago in the interest of a bill authorizing the governor to remove from office temporarily any officer who allows a prisoner to be taken from his custody and lynched or injured. Harmon replied that he favored anti-lynching legislation, but denied that he had any connection with the Southern inter-racial commission.

Richard Denman, of Charleston, is seeking the seat of Congressman B. G. Lowery, of Blue Mountain. W. M. Whittington, representative from the third district, is opposed by W. Y. Humphreys, of Greenville. The only other congressional race is in the fourth district, where J. F. Smith, of Derma, a member of the Mississippi Legislature, is making a bid for the office held by Representative Jeff Busby, of Houston.

PAPER MILLS ASSURED FOR SOUTH MISSISSIPPI.

Establishment of Forty Million Dollar Industry Captain Says.

L. J. Folse, director of the Mississippi State Plant Board of Development, in discussing taxation and industries in Mississippi, stated that at least two paper mills would be established in South Mississippi, with an estimated investment of $40,000,000. He said that the announcement was premature, but that the full story would soon be forthcoming.

He said that if an imaginary line were drawn from Vicksburg to Meridian, the territory south of it would stand as the greatest gum producing area in the country for the manufacture of paper. The necessity for the mixture of the pulp and gum and pine to make paper, he said, gave this particular area a happy combination.

Mr. Folse stated that the building of bridges along the coast and other developments should increase our population within not many years.

He called attention to the necessity of producing more and better milk in South Mississippi, and referred to the regrettable importation of milk into this area that should be producing its own.

EATON J. BOWERS, SR., LOCATES

Attorney Eaton J. Bowers, Sr., former Congressman from the Coast district, and resident of Bay St. Louis and Hancock county, and living in New Orleans for the past several years, announces through the columns of The Echo he will return to Bay St. Louis September 1st for the practice of law. He plans later to move his family to this city and make it his permanent home. Mr. Bowers practiced law in Bay St. Louis for many years until he was elected to Congress, and later moved to Gulfport.

CITY ATTORNEY RESIGNS.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, held at the City Hall Saturday evening, Hon. W. W. Stockstill, city attorney, resigned the honor of trust. At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen Attorney Robt. L. Genin was appointed his successor, which appointment was immediately confirmed and the new appointee assumed the position.

GIVES GENERAL SATISFACTION.

Appointment of Bro. Peter, former vice president St. Stanislaus College, as president of that well known institution, gives general satisfaction. Bro. Peter has received many congratulatory messages, and The Echo wishes to add its own. Bro. Peter is well known and exceedingly popular. He has been a most active vice president for eight years, with results. As president, he is going to be more active and will most tellingly. In advance, he has the cooperation of the community singly and collectively, to make his administration one of marked success and to make S. S. C. bigger and better.

PECAN CROP BIG THIS YEAR.

The pecan crop for Bay St. Louis and Hancock county promises big this year. Trees are loaded and the small pecan is already well matured and gives good promise. There will be a bumper crop this fall. J. W. Vairin, whose well known orchard is located on Main street, where he lives on his country estate, says the pecan trees on his place are numerous and loaded with a crop that gives unusual promise. "I have never seen a crop so well matured and advanced, to say the least, as the abundance, as this year," said Mr. Vairin yesterday. "Size and quality will hold up the price, and the superabundance will have no effect on lowering the selling price." Formerly, he said, plant a pecan tree and pay your taxes.

MAKING SURVEY FOR PROPOSED SEAWALL IN JACKSON COUNTY.

Pascagoula, Miss., August 12.—F. H. McGowan, county engineer, is engaged in making a preliminary survey of the beach at Pascagoula from the mouth of the river to Bayou Casotte, with a view of locating a route for a beach boulevard which it is proposed to protect with a seawall. The engineer will complete his work next week, after which a committee from the Board of Supervisors will obtain from beach property owners a right of way one hundred feet wide for the seawall and boulevard.

A report of proceedings will be officially presented to the Board of Supervisors at their September meeting, and it is expected that the Board will certify to Governor Whitfield that the county desires the appointment of a road protection commission to supervise the construction of a seawall. The city of Pascagoula has adopted an ordinance surrendering all jurisdiction in the premises which would conflict with the free operation of the county in building the road and protection.

MISSISSIPPI LAWS REQUIRE PAYMENT OF TAXES ON ANNUAL BASIS.

Chamber of Commerce, Gulfport, Miss., July 27.

Editor Manufacturers Association:

With regard to quarterly payment of taxes:

This matter was presented to our board of directors Monday night, July 26, and was discussed from various angles. One of our legal members informed us that it was not possible, under the laws of Mississippi, to pay municipal or State taxes otherwise than on an annual basis, due to legal restrictions. It was also pointed out that Mississippi is, to a very great extent, a cotton-producing State and that payments of taxes are arranged for the fall of each year for this reason. As you know, we have no large cities and no great industrial development.

Thanking you for bringing this to our attention, and best wishes for the success of your journal, which we all like.

A COMPLAINT by one of our customers about a charge for a long distance call may help you save money on your toll calls.

This subscriber has two boys away from home, and he calls them on the long distance telephone once a week for a friendly little chat.

Recently he waited until after 8:30 p. m. to place his call in order to secure the reduced night rate. Naturally he was surprised when he was billed at the person-to-person rate.

Inquiry developed the fact that he placed the call by name, asking for either one of his sons. This was, of course, a person-to-person call, for which the rate is the same, both day and night.

If this customer had told the operator he wished to make a station-to-station call, or if he had told her he wished to be connected with the distant telephone, it would have been a station-to-station call at the reduced rate.

We find that many who wait until 8:30 o'clock at night to get reduced rates are making person-to-person calls at the regular rate.

To make a station-to-station call you tell the operator the telephone number at the distant point. If you do not know the number, tell her the name or address under which it is listed. Do not ask to speak to a particular person.

We are anxious for our customers to have the benefit of the low rate for station-to-station calls, and the further reduction at night.

Remember that the reduced night rate applies only to station-to-station calls.

LOCAL BASEBALL.

LUMBERJACKS LOSE.

Bay Stingers Nose Out Kiln, 5 to 4. Cotton Collier Wins Own Game With Willow in Ninth—Exceptionally Good Game Played by Both Teams.

The strong Kiln team of ballies, who have been playing a star brand of the old sport this season, met the best of pitchers whenever they assayed to stop them, met the aggregation of King Solomon, known to the trade as the Bay St. Louis Stingers, out at Rock-a-Chaw Park last Sunday in a brisk nine-inning game, and were turned out at the last spasm as the vanquished by the close score of 5 to 4.

The sport started out as a perfect pitching duel between Cool Summers of the Kiln and Cotton Collier of the local salty splashes, and the same continued till way down the sixth inning with the Cotton lad having given up but a measly two hits; one in the first and another in the fourth, while Summers has seen five safeties chipped off his delivery.

The sixth period came and three bingles were added to the two, making a total of five hits, which layed put till the end of the chapter.

Things started off like Jordan River was going to inundate the Bay with a flood of runs, and the pessimists up in the stands took a deep sigh and remarked: "I knew it, these Kiln boys are slugging and the same thing will happen to the Bay boys had better let 'em name their own score and go home." But the wise guys didn't savvy the whole cloth; they reckoned without the college ace, who, when the ball begins to break for him, knows no such animal as defeat, that lad is also there with the pole, for in the last spasm of the little bat discussion, with a fleet runner on the paths, he slammed out the bingle that put the period to the closing exercises.

As we remarked in the beginning of the start, when we commenced, the big, dark clouds of misery hung low on the baseball horizon. Mister Burke, the hard-working backstop of the Lumberjacks, was given a free pass to the initial bag, and advanced up the line when a bad one slipped (Catcher Bontemps; Lafontaine went safely to first because Taylor had something on his index finger that made the ball slip away. A naughty man in the grand stand said he could hear Taylor singing "Three o'clock in the Morning." Lader then ambled up to the rubber and Cotton grooved one for him, which he pocketed to second beyond second base, whereupon Messrs. Burke and Lafontaine both registered runs.

That's when the elements looked stormy and the anvil clouds started to chant their dirge, which could be heard even through the warbling of the uncertainty of the game. Twenty-eight of Cotton's teeth snapped together then, and as the next man, Haas, came to the rubber, the Ace ran his steam gauge up and clamped on an extra weight to safety valve; he seemed to load up on it. Taylor had something on his index finger that made the ball slip away. A naughty man in the grand stand said he could hear Taylor singing "Three o'clock in the Morning." Lader then ambled up to the rubber and Cotton grooved one for him, which he pocketed to second beyond second base, whereupon Messrs. Burke and Lafontaine both registered runs.

and the first three counted naught for Kiln.

It was in the Bay's half of the third that the sun broke through the heavy clouds. Tomasich caught the second ball and sent it on an errand to the left garden for a bingle. Cotton sacrificed him to second. Bro. Jim fanned, but Mr. Summers permitted Leroy to walk; then Tudury hit a Texas Leaguer to right, which scored Tomasich. A merry chase was on the boards when Leroy played tag between third and home, getting safely back to third, but Tudury was nipped off second to retire the side.

It was one, two, three in the Kiln half. The Stingers took a spurt in their turn and scored two runs when Taylor was safe on Curet's error at short; Schwartz nailed a fly to the center field, which Lader failed to stop, and Taylor went to third scoring head of Schwartz when Wally Bontemps painted a triple cross on the ball over towards left field. Wally died at the hot corner. For Tomasich flew to right and Cotton whiffed.

Bird went down, short to first; Summers singled to center, but went out trying to rubberize it into a double; Burke was easy, second to first.

Another tally was added to the poison-tailed fish score in the fifth, as Jim Collier singled to center and stole the keystone bag, then attempted to catch Jimmie there but slung out a bad peg and the lad took third, and he scored when Leroy singled to right. Tudury sacrificed Leroy to third, but Taylor fanned and Schwartz popped out.

With the score four to two in favor of the locals, the Kilnites went to bat in the sixth and when the fireworks died out the board showed it four all. The visitors had handled themselves to the viz: After Lafontaine had gone down pitcher to first, Lader got a Texas Leaguer to left; Haas singled to right, putting Lader in a third; Cotton pegged badly to catch him and Lader scored. Curet then singled to center, scoring Haas. Green ended the inning by popping to Schwartz.

Thus it stood till the ninth inning. In the meantime the locals had garnered a brace of hits, but couldn't bunch them. It looked like extra innings for the sport. Tudury slammed out a long fly to right and Green made a grand stand stop of it, robbing the Babe out of a hit in the eighth and a run as well, for Schwartz nailed out a single to left after Taylor had struck out.

In their half of the last inning Coach Norton Haas twisted his line-up contrary to the rules of the game, and when the third man ambled up the Umps called side out—after a bit of oratory. The fatal ninth arrived. Wally went safe on Curet's error at short, took second on Tomasich's out to center and then Cotton walked up, his back was towards Penn and he faced the enemy there was blood in his eyes, his muscles twitched and heaved. Cool Summers heaved also, but his heaving was a ball in the place that the waiting Cotton was waiting for. BIFF! The horseshoe went sailing to right garden, and when Cotton had reached the second station Wally had crossed the rubber with the winning tally. So the Bay St. Louis Aces had won their own game.

That's when the elements looked stormy and the anvil clouds started to chant their dirge, which could be heard even through the warbling of the uncertainty of the game. Twenty-eight of Cotton's teeth snapped together then, and as the next man, Haas, came to the rubber, the Ace ran his steam gauge up and clamped on an extra weight to safety valve; he seemed to load up on it. Taylor had something on his index finger that made the ball slip away. A naughty man in the grand stand said he could hear Taylor singing "Three o'clock in the Morning." Lader then ambled up to the rubber and Cotton grooved one for him, which he pocketed to second beyond second base, whereupon Messrs. Burke and Lafontaine both registered runs.

SEVENTEEN POINTS OF THE DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP.

From Manufacturers Record.

"The Duties of Citizenship" formed the subject of a recent charge to the grand jury of Tift county, Georgia, by Judge R. E. At a time when there is such insistent clamor for "rights" and "personal liberty" it is well to consider a thoughtful tabulation of the responsibilities that inevitably go hand in hand with the assumption of rights and liberties.

In mechanics, for every action there is an equal and opposite reaction. Similarly in the social order, for every privilege, "right" or "personal liberty" assumed by the individual there is the corresponding obligation to permit to all fellow-citizens an equal privilege, right or personal liberty.

So much is self-evident and will be conceded by all right-minded men. But in the application of this axiom to our social order, with all its impersonal regulative agencies, men become confused, lose sight of the simple axiom concerning the rights of other men, and so demand more than their share. Yet the permanence of any organization, from a fishing club of a dozen members to a nation of 112,000,000, is dependent upon the willingness of those members to obey the rules adopted for its regulation.

In analyzing the responsibilities of citizenship in a "government by the consent of the governed," Judge Eve tabulates 17 points:

"A Citizenship Creed—My Duties As Citizen."

"1.—To acquaint myself with the fundamental principles of the Constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of which I am a citizen."

"2.—To inform myself on public issues and the character of candidates; then to speak and act as a patriot."

"3.—To vote in all elections according to the dictates of an enlightened conscience."

"4.—To become an active member of some political party pledged to the highest and best in public service; to hold my duty as citizen high above all party ties."

"5.—To hold the faith that right makes might, and in that faith dare to do my duty as I understand it."

"6.—To play no favorites to stand for the vigorous and impartial enforcement of all laws."

"7.—To obey all laws myself and expect others to do the same; to uphold officers in the enforcement thereof."

"8.—To openly and vigorously work for the repeal of all useless or unjust statutes and constitutional provisions."

"9.—To stand as a ready soldier, an honest taxpayer, a willing and impartial juror, a faithful though inconspicuous public servant."

"10.—To know my government; to impart that knowledge to realize what that government does for us all, and to understand what we should do for it."

"11.—To encourage good men to enter and remain in the public service. To serve myself when called."

"12.—To stimulate patriotism, good feeling and loyal co-operation among all classes of our citizens."

"13.—To strive against all efforts to arouse race, religious, class or sectional prejudice."

"14.—To let my knowledge and influence follow my country's affairs around the world."

"15.—To know that I am bound to my State, my nation and to humanity, and to my God."

"16.—To openly oppose and publicly denounce the advocates of any corrupt, unconstitutional and illegal work of the public servants."

EARLY INTEREST SHOWN IN FAIR.

Gulf Coast Fair Will Be Held This Fall at Gulfport, November 2-6th. Necessary to Establish Office on Fair Grounds—D. R. Weston Local V. P.

Interest in the Mississippi Gulf Coast Fair, which is scheduled for the week of November 2-6, inclusive, at Gulfport, continues to grow and inquiries regarding space by prospective exhibitors are becoming more and more numerous, according to reports of the Fair Association secretary, A. G. Johnson. In fact, the inquiries have grown to the extent that Mr. Johnson has found it advisable to establish regular office hours at the Fair grounds already, notwithstanding the fact that it is nearly three months before the date of the exposition. With this idea in mind and in order to give attention to those who seek information in person relative to any phase of the big Coast exhibit the secretary has arranged to be at the Fair grounds each morning until October 1.

Hancock county, as usual, will be well represented. Last year the Rotary Club of Bay St. Louis had the general booth, which, by the way, was the only booth awarded a blue ribbon for general attractiveness and excellence. This year it is expected the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce will take the same booth and assume charge of it under the auspices of the C. O. organization. Secretary Gentry is already anticipating the event.

D. R. Weston, of Logtown, is vice president of the Fair Association for Hancock county, and is manifesting much interest in the cause. There is one thing certain, he will be accorded all the co-operation, in addition to his own energies and enterprise, to make Hancock county's general representation a marked success. County Agent S. F. O'Neal and Demonstrator Agent Miss Maymie O'Donnell will also have their respective work.

It is the aim to have Bay St. Louis and Hancock county keep both city and county always to the fore, and representation at the Fair will help the purpose to no small degree.

BIG COAST HOTELS IN BUILDING.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast is not building big hotels and other enterprises on paper. There is in actual construction and nearing completion two of the major hotels, to be opened this winter, their combined costs figuring in the millions. The Edgewater Beach, between Biloxi and Gulfport, is fast reaching its tenth floor of solid steel and concrete, and over at Pine Hills on the Bay of St. Louis and diametrically from the city of Bay St. Louis, Pine Hills Hotel has reached its fifth main stories, with the roofing in process of finishing, and a tower rising above the massive building that will carry eight miles. On the latter the exterior finishing touches are in the making and the Moorish finish, which will mark the hotel, is already apparent. This hotel, opposite Bay St. Louis, and soon to be connected with our shores by bridge, is the outstanding local improvement nearing completion. The two other major improvements are the building of the Bay St. Louis bridge, already started, and the Waveland-Bay St. Louis seawall.

He is visiting here while Mrs. Osolinach and their son, John, are with relatives at one of the Michigan lake resorts.

—Judge S. Allen Bordelon reached here Sunday from his home town, Marks-ville, La., to join Mrs. Bordelon and daughters, Misses Lillian and Carmen, and will return tomorrow. The judge says he enjoys nothing more than his annual outing to Bay St. Louis, and was agreeably surprised and gratified at the number of outstanding improvements noted since his last visit.

—Mr. John A. Feehan, secretary of the Jefferson Motor Company, at New Orleans, was a visitor to Bay St. Louis during the early part of the week, visiting Judge Goff and family, at the intersection of Nicholson and Jeff Davis avenue. Judge Goff is well known, presiding over the traffic court in his city. Mr. Feehan and family will spend the month of September at their cottage in Nicholson avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wogan, summer residents in Booklet avenue, have added to their pleasures "over the lake" by the purchase of an attractive new Nash car, which wins the admiration of all who see it.

—Mr. L. E. Davis, cable splicer for the Southern Telephone Company, left yesterday afternoon for Gulfport, where he will be stationed for a while.

—Mr. Chas. Belmar of New Orleans, is visiting Mrs. Charles Restart, summer resident on Booklet street, and entertained for her house guests recently at the Little Tea Room in Nicholson avenue, complimentary to her guests, including Miss A. Damien, also of New Orleans.

—At a meeting of the City Council held last night, a resolution was adopted whereby the recently adopted ordinance for city sidewalks is to be enforced at once. The city has a number of streets paved, but with unsightly sidewalks and the remedy is timely.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Picaluga, motoring back home from a trip east, were house guests last night and this morning of the latter's sister, Mrs. R. de Montuzin. Many people are motoring over the country now and it seems the one big outdoor recreation for vacation days.

—As per advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue of The Echo, it will be noticed Harbor Inn, at Clermont Harbor, has changed management, Mrs. Halford, of New Orleans, turning to engage in other pursuit. The change of management takes place today and it is planned to feature the weekly dances at the Pavilion, to which the public is invited.

—The news that Capt. C. B. Fisher is to take over the contract for the building of the Bay St. Louis bridge from Contractor J. B. Smith, who is quite ill, will be received with an earnest of a completion of the bridge within due time. Capt. Fisher plans to rush the work to its earliest completion.

—Bay St. Louis had a number of distinguished visitors Monday evening attending the seaway bond rally and each telling how the plan of building and paying worked well over in Harrison county. The speakers were Judge Emile J. Adam, president of the Board of Supervisors of Harrison county; Mayor Kennedy, of Biloxi; Mayor Milner, of Gulfport; Mayor Spence and Dr. Robertson, of Pass Christian. Including Mayor Herlihy, of Waveland, and Mayor Blaize, of Bay St. Louis, there were the mayors of five coastal cities assembled, an unusual number of chief magistrates gathered at one place.

—Fly-Tox tonight and sleep in comfort—undisturbed by mosquitoes.

—Miss Maymie O'Dom, home demonstration agent for Hancock county, left on vacation Thursday for St. Paul and Minneapolis, to visit her brother, Mr. H. W. O'Dom, district manager for General Motors Corporation for Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and while on this visit Miss O'Dom will accompany her brother on a trip to parts of Canada. On her way home, she plans to visit New York and Washington, stopping on the way at Philadelphia, where the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition is in progress, after which she will resume her duties in Hancock county, refreshed and ready for renewed activities in her local field of endeavor.

A. G. DARDEN OF NEW ORLEANS BUYS PARADISE POINT, $65,000

Noted in The Echo's report from the official realty transfers, appearing elsewhere in this issue, is the purchase of "Paradise Point," at the extreme north end of Bay St. Louis, where the Edine Lot, and Dunbar avenue converge, and for a consideration of $65,000.00.

The property, in which Dr. Theo. Beatterson, of Bay St. Louis, held the controlling interest, was sold to Addison G. Darden, of New Orleans, a personal friend of George R. Bea, whose home has frequently a week-end visitor.

Mr. Darden did not buy for a resale. He plans to at once subdivide the place. But this sub-division, it is planned, to build differently from anything else. Mr. Darden expects to build a number of bungalows of the modern type, and which in turn he proposes to place on the market. This plan has worked excellently in California and Florida.

Within the past year this is the third time the property has changed hands, Robt. L. Genin and R. E. Engman jointly purchasing the Point for what was then considered an enormous price, $15,000. This was in April of last year, and the purchase was made from the Gogreve Realty Company.

Later Messrs. Genin and Engman resold the place to Nicholas Greco, of New Orleans, for $35,000, more than double the amount of the original sale price. It was considered a preposterous price, and many whispered Mr. Greco would hold the bag.

But not so. He sold the property for $62,000. So Dr. Beatterson and associates, Mr. Darden the purchaser. The property has a frontage on Bay St. Louis of about 500 feet and is about 1,200 feet on Dunbar avenue. It is an ideal place and beauty spot, and developed as a high class proposition, it will prove valuable to the new owners.

Mr. Darden has been extensively connected with Gulf Hills, Brangier Bros., master sub-division back of Ocean Springs, and where he built quite a number of dwellings of the type he plans to build here. He is a master builder and developer and his coming to Bay St. Louis will easily prove an acquisition.
